INSIGHT

Financial Health: Total revenue stands at 17,763K, driven by nearly 30K orders with a healthy 57% customer retention rate.

Revenue Channels: Business is almost perfectly balanced between In-Store (8913K) and Online (8850K).

Peak Performance: The Morning period is the primary revenue driver, while the Java Chip Frappuccino is the top-performing product by both quantity and revenue.

Growth Trends: After a 7.63% dip in February, revenue rebounded strongly in March with a 9.9% Month-over-Month (MoM) increase.

Opportunity Area: Lunch represents the lowest revenue period by time of day, suggesting a potential gap for mid-day promotions or food-pairing offers.

INSIGHT

Revenue is driven by repeat customers through higher order frequency, while AOV remains consistent across segment, and customer contribution is evenly distributed across cities. Additionally a small group of top customers contributes a significant share of revenue, highlighting a concentration risk and an opportunity to improve new customer retention.

AVG.PICE OF TOP 5 REVENUE PRODUCTS

INSIGHT

Revenue is primarily driven by coffee categories , with Hot and Cold Coffee contributing the major share. Top-performing products generate high revenue through combination of strong sales volume and stable average pricing , indicating consistent customer demand rather than premium pricing alone.
